Myanmar – “How much more time?”

Vibemac to present upgraded versions of the serging and loop setting automated workstation

Hall 5.1, Booth B-36

The 33-year-old pioneer Vibemac – synonymous in providing advanced yet flexible sewing automates for jeans, chinos, dockers, sportswear, casual and classic trousers – would showcase automatic serging machine V800AS and automatic loop-setter 4650EV9R, with new features.

The V800AS will come fitted with a patented air-assisted transport system that allows you to not only stitch any kind of fabric, but also to serge on the back panel with the back yoke

already joined. Equipped with a super-fast Yamato sewing head exclusively designed for Vibemac and fully made in Japan, the V800 is a 1 or 2 needles, 4 threads overlock unit that runs at 6300 RPM. The V800AS presents patented new solutions: 3 litre extra oil capacity, forced oil device with inter cooler pump (patented), 100% cut scraps vacuum device, special cutting system device with HSS blades (patented) provided with vacuum and sensor which allow the machine to work continuously, long lasting blade +50% and threads saving over 70%. An extra pneumatic cylinder assists the cutting device.

Another innovation on display would be 4650EV9R with new electronics features and improved mechanicals such as a coloured 7" user-friendly touch screen panel, new 400 W motors for better X & Y movement, a completely new CPU and a loop aligner system. The 4650EV Series are a part of technological development from the first loop setter that was created by Vibemac in 1980: the 1650 model was born over 30 years ago.
